

Wild Future is a non-for-profit group of Africans, African students abroad and other volunteers across the world that strive to teach the world's youngest population. Access to Higher Education has been a luxury that most could not afford in Africa for so long. Our goal is to change that or at least leave a significant mark. There are so many opportunities in the world every day and a lot of people just do not know. We aim to be the link between those opportunities and the youth who is desperate about finding them. We strive to make a wild future available for everyone who strives to earn one.

Personas

Alex The High School Graduate

A High School Graduate
Intending to Study Abroad

Linda The Entrepreneur

An inventor and creative women intending to start a business startup.

John The Researcher

An aspiring university professor who conducts extensive researches with new ideas.

